“Epidemiology of CPE in long term care in Toronto/Peel, 2007-2023”

Dr. Conrad Izydorczyk, PhD, MSc
Postdoctoral fellow at Mount Sinai Hospital

Dr. Conrad Izydorczyk is a postdoctoral fellow at Mount Sinai Hospital supervised by Dr. Allison McGeer (Sinai Health) and Dr. Julianne Kus (Public Health Ontario). He obtained his PhD from University of Calgary in 2023 and received his MSc from University of Toronto in 2018.

In his role, he applies genomic and epidemiological methods to study the spread of antimicrobial resistant pathogens in Toronto’s healthcare systems. He will be joining the University of Manitoba’s clinical microbiology postdoctoral residency program as a fellow later this year.
